Prepared for organisational record, donor engagement and programme evidence.

1. Executive Summary

Action for Equality Foundation (AFEF) continued its community-based work in Central Equatoria, with a focus on women's participation, gender equality, human rights, child protection, education and community advocacy. The documented 2025 results available for this report show 423 activity-level participants/reach: 50 girls reached through child protection activities in two primary schools in Kapuri, and 373 people reached through community meetings, consultations and coordination on GBV, the Back to Learning campaign and gender equality in Terekeka and Juba/Kapuri. These results demonstrate AFEF's grassroots engagement and its practical focus on women's and girls' rights.

2. Organisational Profile

Action for Equality Foundation (AFEF) is a non-profit, non-governmental, national community-based organisation initiated in 2015 as a women-led organisation. AFEF is dedicated to women's participation, gender equality and human rights, and to building the capacity of people and service providers working with vulnerable communities in South Sudan. AFEF operates in Central Equatoria State, including Juba and Terekeka.

Key organisational information:

- Registration number: 4687
- Staffing: 6 female staff and 1 male staff (7 staff in total).
- Leadership: led by a woman.
- Programme experience includes women's empowerment, gender and women's rights, child protection, GBV prevention/mainstreaming, education, VSLA/livelihoods, SACCO, peacebuilding, community mobilisation and advocacy.

Key Results and Documented Reach

Programme area	Female	Male	Total	Geographic / implementation note
Child Protection – two primary schools in Kapuri	50	0	50	All reached participants reported as girls under 18; activities included MHM and GBV messages. Community meetings/consultations on GBV, Back to Learning and gender equality in Terekeka and Juba/Kapuri.
Community advocacy, awareness and coordination	289	84	373

Total documented 2025 activity-level reach: 423 (339 female; 84 male).

3. Programme Implementation and Results

3.1 Child Protection and Girls' Education

AFEF reached 50 children, all girls under 18, through child protection activities in two primary schools in Kapuri. The engagement included menstrual hygiene management (MHM) and GBV prevention messages, linking child protection with girls' safety, dignity and continued access to education.

3.2 Community Advocacy, GBV and Gender Equality

AFEF documented 373 people reached through community meetings, consultations and coordination addressing GBV, the Back to Learning campaign and gender equality in Terekeka and Juba/Kapuri. The engagement provided space for community dialogue, awareness raising and identification of issues affecting women, girls and children.

4. Cross-Cutting Approaches

- Women- and girls-centred programming and community participation.
- Protection and safeguarding considerations in community and school engagement.
- Community consultation and coordination with local stakeholders.
- Gender equality and rights-based messaging integrated into education and community activities.
- Use of activity records and participant information to document reach and inform follow-up.

5. Organisational Learning and Priorities

AEEF's 2025 experience reinforced the importance of sustained community engagement, stronger documentation and evidence systems, continued attention to girls' education and protection, and investment in organisational systems that allow a local women-led organisation to sustain and scale its work.

6. Evidence and Verification

The 2025 report should be read together with available activity records, attendance/participant sheets, photographs, organisational records and community/partner references. The reach figures in this report are documented activity-level figures and have not been deduplicated across activities.

Photo Evidence

Selected programme photographs provided by AEEF are included for programme verification and visibility. Photograph dates should be cross-checked against AEEF's original photo/activity records before external publication. AEEF will apply appropriate consent, safeguarding, confidentiality and do-no-harm requirements.

Management Verification

This report is prepared from AEEF programme records and management-provided results. Participant figures are presented as documented activity-level reach/participations unless otherwise stated and should not be interpreted as unique individuals where participants may have attended more than one activity.
